On an August Sunday four rough teenage boys spend a day at the beach. They drink too much and they take too much Sun. When Irene, a blond, willowy teenage girl, comes by on her bicycle, they rape her. But one of the boys, Ciro, turns himself in the next day.

The boys all get four-year jail sentences, but Irene is even worse off. Then we see Ciro slowly come to grips with what he has done, while Irene also returns to life. But will they ever be able to look each other in the eyes?
